Public Service Awards 2023

Sponsored by the Dallas-Fort Worth Federal Executive Board

President Joseph R. Biden Jr. Proclaims May 7 through May 13, 2023, as Public Service Recognition Week

PUBLIC SERVICE RECOGNITION WEEK, 2023

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

Every day, more than 20 million dedicated public servants in small towns and big cities across our Nation go to work to make sure that America works for all of us. From teaching our children and delivering the mail to controlling air traffic in our skies, overseeing our elections, fighting fires, keeping our streets safe, and defending our country in uniform, these remarkable Americans are the lifeblood of our democracy. This week, we honor them and celebrate all they give to this country.

I have had the great privilege of working with public servants who lift up others and so seldom seek recognition or personal acclaim in return. I have also witnessed the sacrifices of families who serve alongside them, like those who uproot their lives every few years when a family member's job calls on them to find a new home, and law enforcement families who wait bravely for loved ones to come back from their shifts. Public servants embody the timeless creed of this Nation found in the words of President John F. Kennedy: "Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country."

At a time when public servants are facing threats and hostility simply for doing their jobs, their continued willingness to serve is even more meaningful and important. We have an obligation to support them and to recognize and value their commitment and sacrifice. Our Nation's future depends on ensuring our public servants have good jobs with competitive pay and benefits, along with the resources they need to accomplish their work. It also depends on the next generation of smart, dedicated people answering the call of public service and joining their ranks, helping deliver the promise of America to more of our citizens. That is why my American Rescue Plan provided $350 billion to State, Tribal, and local governments to keep public servants on the payroll and make vital new hires — including first responders, teachers, and public works employees. My Safer America Plan calls on the Congress to provide our law enforcement officers with more mental health and wellness resources and to recruit and hire 100,000 more police officers for safe, effective, and accountable community policing, consistent with the standards of my policing Executive Order.

Meanwhile, my Administration is taking steps to protect, empower, and rebuild the career Federal workforce. I issued Executive Orders increasing the minimum wage for Federal employees to $15 per hour, making Government jobs more competitive and giving hardworking Americans more breathing room. To ensure public servants reflect the diversity of the communities they serve and to draw on the full range of talent we have across our Nation, I took executive action to protect Federal employees against discrimination on the basis of gender identity or sexual orientation, and launched a Government-wide initiative to advance diversity, equity, inclusion, and accessibility in the Federal workforce. And I established a White House Task Force on Worker Organizing and Empowerment, led by Vice President Harris, to strengthen the right to unionize among Federal Government workers. To ensure that employment in the Federal workforce continues to be based on merit, skill, and experience — and does not become politicized — I have also called for legislation to protect the integrity of the civil service.

Public servants so often come out of school with debt that can take more than a decade to pay off, so my Administration has also worked to fix the Public Service Loan Forgiveness program.

To date, we have helped over 450,000 public servants — including teachers, first responders, nurses, and members of the military — get nearly $31 billion in loan forgiveness.

These actions are all part of my plan to build a country that rewards work and not just wealth, especially for those who dedicate their lives to improving the lives of others. These are investments in America's future. When we support our public servants with the recognition and resources they deserve, our loved ones are safer in their communities, our families are more likely to get the high-quality services they need in a timely manner, our economy is stronger, and we put ourselves on a path to win the race for the future.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JOSEPH R. BIDEN JR., President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and the laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim May 7 through May 13, 2023, as Public Service Recognition Week. I call upon all Americans to celebrate public servants and their contributions this week and throughout the year.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this fifth day of May, in the year of our Lord two thousand twenty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and forty-seventh.

JOSEPH R. BIDEN JR.

Federal Executive Board Chair Giancarlo BrizziGeneral Service Administration

Giancarlo Brizzi serves as the Acting Regional Administrator for the Greater Southwest Region of the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA). As Acting Regional Administrator, Mr. Brizzi oversees all of GSA's operations in Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas; that includes a team of more than 700 employees.

Giancarlo Brizzi is also GSA's Public Buildings Service (PBS) Regional Commissioner for the Greater Southwest Region. As the Regional Commissioner, Mr. Brizzi is responsible for several hundred federal personnel; a large annual operating, leasing and capital budget; and the operations, maintenance and repair of federal office space, United States courthouses, land ports of entry, state-of-the-art laboratories, and warehouses within the region.

Prior to joining PBS, Mr. Brizzi served as the Principal Deputy Associate Administrator in the Office of Government-wide Policy, where he led efforts to ensure that government-wide policies encourage agencies to develop and utilize the best, most cost effective management practices in the areas of acquisition, personal and real property, travel and transportation, evidence and evaluation, and information technology. While at GSA, he has also served as the GSA Acting Chief of Staff, the Acting Associate Administrator for Government-wide Policy and the Acting Chief Operating Officer for the Technology Transformation Service.

Before GSA, Mr. Brizzi worked at the U.S. Department of the Treasury, where he contributed in several different capacities with his last assignment as the Director of the Office of Financial Management for the Departmental Offices (Treasury Headquarters). In that role, he led a large office responsible for implementing and maintaining a comprehensive program of budgetary policy, controls and oversight of financial resources in appropriated, non-appropriated and no-year funds.

Prior to government service, Mr. Brizzi worked as a management consultant, where he assisted a number of large federal agencies in improving financial management operations. He is a veteran of the Army National Guard as an infantry officer where he deployed to both Afghanistan and Iraq.

Mr. Brizzi has a Bachelor of Science in Finance and a Master of Business Administration from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University (Virginia Tech).

Federal Executive Board Vice Chair Kriste Jordan Smith Transportation Security Administration

Kriste Jordan Smith has led strategic improvements and large-scale operations for multiple federal agencies for the past twenty years. She managed high-profile program teams at the Department of Education, spearheaded enterprise-wide process improvements at the Department of Homeland Security headquarters, institutionalized major learning and development programs at the Trans-portation Security Administration, and benchmarked employee engagement practices at the Gov-ernment Accountability Office. She has managed large and geographically-dispersed teams deliv-ering information technology deployments to hundreds of locations, overseeing both steady state and emergency operations and complex procurements. Before becoming Deputy Federal Security Director at DFW airport in 2013, she was at the helm of transformational change, leading innova-tion at the Transportation Security Administration through risk-based security initiatives such as TSA Check expedited passenger screening.

Kriste has a Bachelor of Science in Psychology from George Mason University, Master's Certifi-cate in Project Management from George Washington University, and Project Management Pro-fessional (PMP) certification from the Project Management Institute. She is a graduate of the DHS SES Candidate Development program and a Senior Fellow at the Partnership for Public Ser-vice. In 2005, Kriste achieved the Department of Homeland Security's certification as a Level III (highest level) Acquisition Program Manager. A former Vice President for Professional Develop-ment for the 8,000-member Washington, D.C. Chapter of the Project Management Institute (PMI), Kriste also volunteers for other professional and non-profit entities that share her passion for delivering results in the federal sector.

Tronox Allocation Team
Environmental Protection Agency – Region 6

The Region 6 Tronox Allocation Strategy Team includes Craig Carroll, Doretha Christian, Matthew Miller, Anish Patel, Chris Petersen, Kevin Shade, Pam Travis, Susan Webster and Warren Zehner. This team is recognized for finalizing the allocation of $305M of the Tronox bankruptcy settlement to region 6 Tronox mines. The Allocation allows the region to renew discussions with liable and viable Potentially Responsible Parties to conduct removal actions at the contaminated mining sites. The Tronox allocation strategy required intense coordination within the team and with federal, state, and local stakeholders to move work forward. They coordinated many discussions to address the many details to outline an allocation strategy and also identified several questions that needed immediate attention. The strategy they implemented has created clarity for a responsible party to advance cleanup of nearly 17 square miles of contaminated land from abandoned uranium mines using a portion of the Tronox funding.

Reasonable Accomodators
U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

In 2019, there was a discrimination complaint from a tenant living in North Texas' largest housing authority received by HUD's Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity. This team's creativity was displayed when it answered a critical legal question regarding whether a pending eviction relieves a housing provider of its obligation to provide reasonable accommodations by noting that it does not provide pardon a housing authority of its duties. It then set out a myriad of compelling explanations for why an eviction is not a forgone conclusion for a tenant making an accommodation request. By doing this, it opened the door for the tenant's claim to move forward with the investigation and eventually led to a successful agreement of a $500,000 payment to the tenant who was living in dehumanizing circumstances.

The Compliance Digitalization Initiative includes Teresa Radice, Melissa Ly, Boris Slobodkin, Srimoti Chowdhury, Renee Brandon, Sheetala Betrabet, Clyde Cooper, Robert Hutfilz, and Christopher Tokarz. The Initiative was launched in November of 2022 as a pilot that allows Wage & Investment Clerks to upload scanned taxpayer correspondence into a system called Correspondence Examination Automation Support. The documents are received from the taxpayer via either scanned paper mail, E-FAX receipts, or Document Upload Tool (DUT) downloads. This effort is critical to the IRS effort for greater digitalization. This team worked diligently to put this effort into production while ensuring filing season updates remained on track. The volume increased with 100,000 taxpayer letters processed at a rate of about 10,000 letters per week. Rate of corresponding processing has doubled from 5,000 to 10,000 per week due to Filing Season. This automated process continues to provide a significant time savings to the business.

The Community Profile Analytics Team includes Jeremy Hughes, Charlie Cook, John Bowman, Dr. John Garvin, Sabaa Ismail, Matt Valentin, and Jennell Schmidt. Prior to the development of this team, community flood hazard data was analyzed in a narrowed and constricted fashion. Many of the data sets were siloed within their program, poorly integrated, or entirely unexplored. The creation of this team is the culmination of an extended effort beginning with the aftermath of Hurricane Harvey in 2017 and now these profiles have produced several iterations evolving to the needs of many disasters including Hurricanes Imelda, Laura, Delta, and Ida. To date the FMI Data Analytics Team has produced 127 Community Profiles for some of the most vulnerable communities within Region 6. These profiles, in the hands of community officials, have the ability to greatly assist project development by highlighting areas of unmet need.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AWARD WINNER

Terry Roundtree
Management Advocate
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency - Region 6

Terry has been an important member of the Dallas Ft. Worth Federal Executive Board for more than 10 years. Specifically, Terry has served on the Public Service Awards Ceremony Committee, as a member of the Peer Review Panel, and lately, has assisted the DFW FEB in exercising effective and efficient government by identifying ways to save critical taxpayer dollars in redundant printing costs. Terry also improved the awards process by identifying ways to eliminate laborious tasks performed by agency volunteers that previously resulted in lost human capital hours. Mr. Roundtree has advocated for the DFW FEB to Senior leaders to support the awards ceremony financially and other FEB operational programs for many years. Terry has also shown great support in lending his talent, time, and resources to the DFW FEB.

DFW FEB CHAIRMAN'S AWARD WINNER

Julia Lothrop
Executive Officer
U.S Department of Health and Human Services

Julia has supported the DFW FEB through the auspices of HHS for over 15 or more years by ensuring HHS funding remained relevant to support the day-to-day operations of DFW FEB. Julia has worked with two DFW Executive Director's and several HHS Regional Administrators to make the effort work. Julia has effectively managed the delicate balance of carrying out her duties as Acting Regional Administrator, Executive Officer, DFW FEB Chair, among other high-profile duties. Julia has worked with State, Federal, and local leaders to ensure the work of HHS and the DFW FEB is beneficial to federal employees, civilians, and tribal groups. Not to mention her efforts in coordinating work schedules, time and attendance, keeping the RD travel efforts and schedule organized, coupled with effective communication between HQ, Washington, D.C. and the field.
